LATEST UPDATES

➢ March 30th, 2016: The project team hosted a “Key Stakeholder Kick-Off Webinar” with 18 individuals and organizations representing the tribal victim services field.

➢ April 19th, 2016: The project team hosted an online informational session to introduce the Tribal Resource Mapping project to the general public. Since this event, we have received information on existing services and identified partners doing similar work. Watch the recorded webinar. Download the PowerPoint slides.

➢ April 28th, 2016: The Office for Victims of Crime (OCV) hosted a meeting to focus on two OVC funded tribal efforts: the National Indian Nations Justice for Victims of Crime Conference and the Tribal Resource Mapping Project. The project team was able to collaborate with over thirty participants representing different federal agencies and offices that work in Indian country.

UPCOMING EVENTS

➢ June 13-14, 2016: June’s Key Stakeholder meeting in Phoenix, AZ is an opportunity to gather ideas and collaborate on the design and content of the tool with the 20 Key Stakeholders identified in consultation with OVC.

➢ Focus groups for Alaska Natives and urban Indian communities are being planned in order to gather insight on existing services and the unique needs of survivors of crime living in those areas.
HOW YOU CAN HELP

- Phase one of this project consists of gathering lists of all services available for AI/AN survivors of crime and abuse. We are hoping to include services for all ages of victims, all forms of victimization, all locations, all needs of victims, including justice, safety, healing, and support. Please send any information on existing services you may have internally or within your network to project email: tribalresourcемapping@ncvc.org.
- Let us know about other similar efforts this project should coordinate with
- Share the project website within your network: www.VictimsofCrime.org/Tribal_Mapping
- Meet with the project team! If you would like the opportunity to meet with a team member about the project, please click on their name below. Send us your name/role/agency and request a meeting.
